Postscript: 1966 British Antarctic Survey Mystery

After the first part of Britain’s Secret War in Antarctica was published, I was inundated with people and specialists in their field with more substantiating information.

However, by far the most intriguing and exciting was an email sent to me by Miles Johnston who investigated a strange story about Antarctica with Danny Wilson whilst with the Irish UFO Research Centre. The centre was contacted by an Eric Wilkinson in 1975, who had reported a strange incident in 1966 when he was with the British Antarctic Survey.

An even stranger photo backs up the story (see above). In Miles Johnston’s own words, he explains:

"In 1975 I investigated a UFO/Strange Black Ray Cloud formation, taken by a Belfast member of the British Antarctic Survey. He gave me some images of a pulsing cloud formation firing a black ray into the ice, which bounced off and reflected further away from him. Who knows... maybe someone down there is using negative energy beam weapons? Or was... since the images were taken in 1966.“

The photo [above] is indeed enigmatic and substantiates the fact that Antarctica and Britain’s role there are shrouded in mystery.
